We take pride in attention to detail, in our professional teaching staff, and in achieving 100% passing rate of our candidates. (free extra help and free second retry).

All our IDC training have a IDC prep. of 2 days in advance (optional) to better prepare you. The PADI IE is always direct after this traning. (19 June, 25 Sept and 27 November)

FAQ's

What are the requirements to enroll in the IDC?

You should have a PADI Divemaster rating (or equivalent), at least 18 years old, have 60 logged dives and be open water certified for at least six months.

What if I am only a PADI Open Water or Advanced Diver?

You will need to become a PADI Rescue Diver and PADI Divemaster first. Many of our instructor candidates take those courses prior to their IDC with us. We have complete packages available. Our "Zero to Hero" package of our "GoPro" packages.

Do I need my own dive equipment?

Up to Dive Master training we will provide you with professional scuba gear. As of Dive Master you would need a full set of scuba equipment and appropriate exposure protection. We do provide gear for recreational courses, but as PADI Pro you should have your own dive gear.

Were is your IDC center?

We have three 5 STAR IDC training centers along the Riviera Maya & Cozumel. Up to Dive Master you can do at any of our centers. The IDC training is usually done at our 5 Star facility, Catalonia Playa Maroma. It's 15 minutes north of Playa del Carmen, and we provide transportation.

Is there anything to do?

Mexico is one of the TOP 10 Dive and Holiday destinations in the world. Playa del Carmen is the place to be, with restaurants, beach bars and a wild night life. Please focus on your training first :-)

How long does it take to Go Pro?

It depends on your level of experience. You need 60 dives to become certified as a Divemaster. To attend the IE you need to have at least 100 logged dives. When you are NO certified diver a minimum time is 6 Months (PADI rules)

Do I have to be very fit?

You are not required to be an athlete. A normal level of fitness is required.

Can I fail the IDC?

No one ever really fails a dive course, and the IDC is no different. The IDC is a development course. We evaluate you, but we also coach and teach you so that you will pass the IE easily. Our Course Director will advise you about the probabilities of your examination.

What is the most common reason a candidate may fail the IE?

Dive theory exams and standards. For that reason we start your training even before the IDC begins, Our OWSI training is 12 days instead of 10 days anywhere else. Prior to your course you will receive detailed study instructions and dive theory exams.

What happens if I do fail an IE?

We have made a commitment to your instructor development. Remedial work is free of charge. However, your commitment has to be matched by ours. We can help you learn, but we can't do it for you.

Do you provide accommodations? That's easy: the Riviera Maya & Cozumel have over 60,000 hotel rooms, so there is something for every taste and budget. We can suggest anything from a $15 per night dorm room, to a $1000 per month suite with ocean view. We are based in several hotels and can provide full accommodations.

Can I get a job in Mexico?

Sure you can. In fact a large proportion of our instructor graduates continue with our own operation. Others find work in the many dive operations in the region. Our job placement program assists you in finding the perfect job. Your employer will help you get a work permit, it takes a couple of weeks, but you need to wait two weeks for your teaching status anyway. Exclusive by PRO DIVE MEXICO: IDC with Job placement service!!

I'm ready. How do I make reservation?

Contact us per email, per telephone or skype To reserve your spot you need to make a 50% deposit, and the balance of your tuition has to be paid 30 days prior to course begin. It all starts with the correct information, and we can provide you this. Furthermore our Course Director will answer all outstanding questions you might have.

Let us know if we can be of any further help.
